Synergis University, a customer-focused educational event, brings industry experts and customers together on June 4 in Bethlehem, PA

QUAKERTOWN, Pennsylvania, June 3, 2014—Synergis Engineering Design Solutions, a division of Synergis Technologies, LLC and a highly-rated, value-added Autodesk reseller in the Americas, today announced that Synergis University, now in its ninth year, will feature Amy Bunszel, Vice President of AutoCAD Products, Autodesk as the keynote speaker on Wednesday, June 4, at the Sands Convention Center in Bethlehem, PA.

“Synergis University is designed with our customers in mind, to give them an opportunity to learn from the best in the business and to expand their own knowledge base, which helps them bring even more value to their organizations,” said Kristen Tomasic, divisional vice president for Synergis Engineering Design Solutions. “This year we have the most registrants we’ve ever seen, and with experts from Autodesk, and a keynote speaker like Amy Bunszel, we’re confident our customers will get a lot out of the entire day of events planned for them.”

The tracks included in this day-long event include:

- Building and Construction BIM Track
- Civil and Infrastructure BIM Track
- Manufacturing

The sessions planned for Synergis and Autodesk customers are intended to provide insight into best practices for using Autodesk software products and to help these customers realize even greater return on their investment. 2015 will mark the ten-year anniversary of Synergis University and plans are already underway to build on the success of this year’s event.
